

GSK at a glance

Who we are

As a focused biopharma company, we discover, develop and deliver medicines and vaccines to create value for patients and shareholders.

What we do

We prevent and treat disease with specialty medicines, vaccines and general medicines.

We focus on the science of the immune system and advanced technologies, investing in four core therapeutic areas – respiratory, immunology and inflammation; oncology; HIV; and infectious diseases – to impact health at scale.

We operate responsibly for all our stakeholders.

Specialty Medicines

Our specialty medicines prevent and treat diseases, from HIV, cancer and asthma to autoimmune diseases like lupus.

Vaccines

Our broad vaccines portfolio targets infectious diseases at every stage of life.

General Medicines

From antibiotics to inhaled medicines for asthma and COPD, we have a broad portfolio of general medicine products.

Our progress in 2025

Research and development

We develop and launch new medicines and vaccines where they are needed, with better, faster and smarter R&D.

Our culture

We have more than 65,000 people in 70 countries worldwide.

We are ambitious for patients to deliver what matters better and faster.

We are accountable for impact with clear ownership and support to succeed.

We do the right thing with integrity and care because people count on us.

These are the foundations for how, together, we'll deliver more for our patients, shareholders and GSK people.

Our culture powers our purpose and drives delivery of our strategy.

Why we do it

We aim to get ahead of disease together – to positively impact the health of 2.5 billion people by the end of the decade.
