Dynastic politics biggest enemy of democracy: PM

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday blasted dynastic politics as the 'biggest enemy' of democ-racy and said it gives rise to a new form of 'dictatorship' and burdens the country with 'fincompetence'.

racy and said it gives rise to a new form of "dictatorship" and burdens the country with "incompetence".

Addressing the valedictory function of the second National Youth Parliament Festival, Mod flaunched an all out attack on dynastic parties, saying those who rise due to their dynastics have no respect and fear of law as they believe if their previous generations were not accounted for corruption, none can touch them as well. "They see such examples in their own families. So they have neither respect nor fear of law," he said, asking youngsters to Join politics as this is "necessary" to save it, though he did not name any party but he has in the past often hit out at upposition parties. Including the Congress, for being run by familles. He said: "It is true that fin politics the fortunes of those who have been winning elections on the basis of surmanes are dwinding. But in politics, this disease of dynastie politics is not completely finished." They, he said in a reference to these dynasties, are also a very higreason behind political and social corruption in behind political and social corruption. these dynastics, are also a very big reason behind political and social corruption in

Though people have now been sup-porting honesty and performance, and the legacy of "corruption" of those in dynastic politics have become a burden for them, but the "disease of dynastic pol-itics" has not been fully eradicated, the order publisher said.

"There are still people whose conduct, ideas and goals are all aimed at saving their family politics and their families in politics. Dynastic politics gives rise to a new form of dictatorship in democracy and burdens the country with incompetence. Dynasic politics only strengthens the sentiment of 'me and my family' instead of 'nation first,' he said.

Modi, however, added that things have changed from a time when people associated politics with "violence, corruption, and hord" and thought it cannot change. A youngster joining politics was seen as sumeone who has gone astray, he said. People are now so aware that they sand with honest people in politics and give them a chance, he said, asserting that honesty and performance have become "first essential requirements of today's politics".

This has happened due to pressure created by the awareness in the country, he said, before noting that some changes are still required and highlighting dynastic politics as the "biggest enemy" of democracy.

"The biggest enemy of democracy still exists and that is dynastic politics. Dynastic politics is such a challenge before the country that has to be rooted out," he said. Exhorting youngsters to join politics in his virtual address, the prime unlister said the "polson of dynastic politics" will continue to weaken democracy unless they enter it.

The nation's politics like any other sector needs them and their new thoughts, energy, ideas and dreams alot, he said. Referring to dynastic politics, he said this can be changed through awareness and the young generation joining politics.

His government has been organising and promoting youth-related events, including holding mock parliament, to prepare the young generation in this regard, Modi said.
