'Duty Cut Won't Impact Edible Oil Prices'

Not much scope for import of refined soybean or sunflower oil, but market is opened up: Cos

Sutanuka.Ghosal@timesgroup.com

Kolkata: The government's move on Wednesday night to reduce the duty on refined soybean oil and refined sunflower oil to 12.5% from 17.5% will not have any impact on the prices of sunflower and soybean oil, said Emami Agrotech, Adani Wilmar and Gemini Edibles & Fats India.

The companies said the importing time for these oils is around 50 days, within which the oils lose their quality and original taste, and at present, India is not importing refined soybean or sunflower oil. The country imports non-refined oils, which are refined in the country at the refineries, they said.

"In originating countries of soya and sunflower oils there is not much of surplus refining capacities at present and they do not have preferential lower duty for refined oils," said Emami Agrotech CEO Sudhakar Desai. "So, bulk imports of refined sunflower and soybean oils may not happen in the short term. However, it opens up the Indian market for imports of refined oils and refined palm imports will continue unless the duty differential is widened." At present, all crude edible oils—crude palm oil, crude sunflower oil and crude soybean oil—attract an import duty of 5%. The refined oils attract an import duty of 12.5% plus a cess of 10% on import duty.

Angshu Mallick, managing director, Adani Wilmar, said the government's decision will have little impact on sunflower and soybean oil prices. "Prices are significantly low now and there is no room to reduce them further. Consumers, too, are comfortable with these prices. As and when the prices fall, we pass them on to our customers," he said.

Quality issues arise when refined sunflower and soybean oils are imported. "They have to be brought in specialised steel containers carefully so that the oil does not oxidise. Maintaining the quality is a major issue," said Pradeep Chowdhury, managing director, Gemini Edibles & Fats India. "Prices are at the lowest level now and may go up as edible oil producing countries like Brazil and others will face the El Nino in the next year. Rather than reducing the import duty, the government should create a buffer stock at these prices so that consumers can have oil at comfortable prices."

BV Mehta, executive director, Solvent Extractors Association of India, said, "Even with lesser duty difference between crude and refined soya and sunflower oil, shipments of refined soya and sunflower oil may not be commercially viable but may have some temporary sentiment impact on the market."

BANKRUPTCY ISSUES

NCLT Directs Go First RP to Ensure Protection of Engine Lessors' Assets

Tribunal approves EY's Shailendra Ajmera as RP

Ishaan.Gera@timesgroup.com

New Delhi: The insolvency court on Thursday directed the resolution professional of Go First airline to ensure maintenance of engines leased from SMBC Afro Engine Lease BV and Engine Lease Finance BV, allowing the engine lessors' request seeking a direction to protect their assets.

A bench of the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) also approved the appointment of Shailendra Ajmera of EY as the resolution professional (RP) for Go First. Ajmera was unanimously chosen as the RP by the committee of creditors in its first meeting held on June 9, replacing interim RP Abhilash Lal.

SMBC Afro ELBV had leased five engines to Go First since 2019, whereas ELFBV had leased four engines to the Wadia group-owned airline.

Senior counsel appearing for ELFBV submitted before NCLT that he had "photographs showing that engines had been lying unprotected".

The tribunal, though, rejected engine lessors' plea for inspection of their assets leased to the airline.

The engine and aircraft lessors have been demanding return of their assets, given cancellation of leases prior to the initiation of the corporate insolvency resolution process (CIRP). Go First had filed for voluntary insolvency on May 3, which the tribunal accepted on May 10.
